1.0 CHAPTER ONE – INTRODUCTION

BWF THOMAS & UBER CUP FINALS 2016

PREVIOUS EVENTS & FORMATS

The Thomas Cup or Men's World Team Championships was first staged in 1948-49, and the Uber Cup or Women's World Team Championships was added for the first time in 1956-7.

The Thomas Cup, taking place every three years, was the BWF's first major international tournament. The idea for the competition and the donation of the trophy was by the first President of the World body, Sir George Thomas, legendary player (21 All England titles) and administrator of the Sport. Sir George was inspired by tennis's Davis Cup and football's World Cup (first held in 1930) to propose an international badminton team event and this was well received at the general meeting of the International Badminton Federation (now BWF) in 1939. Unfortunately its inception planned for 1941-42 was delayed by the impending World War.

The Thomas Cup itself is more properly known as the 'The International Badminton Championships Challenge Cup' and it is a beautiful traditional silver gilt cup produced by Atkin Brothers of London.

The Uber Cup Finals have been held alongside the Men's competition since 1984, with both then taking place biennially. The Uber Cup had previously taken place at three yearly intervals separately to the Men's competition but always with a similar format. The trophy is a unique silver gilt rotating globe with a female player standing on top of a shuttlecock produced by Mappin & Webb. The trophy was presented by another famous player and the person whose original idea it was to start a team Championships for Women, the eponymous Betty Uber. Betty Uber also made the draw for the 1956-7 inaugural tournament which took place at Lytham St Annes in Lancashire, England.

From the start of the two competitions there has always been a qualifying zone for teams to reach the Finals, the number and format of which has changed and developed over time.

Holder

Hosts

Next best 14 teams from the World Rankings

(the world ranking for each team is based on the combined points total of the highest 3 singles players and highest 2 doubles pairs eligible to represent that team in the World Rankings).

It is expected that this format, of 16 teams, will continue for the 2016 Finals although discussions on method of qualification for the Finals continue.

Continental Quota

The teams qualified shall include the highest ranked Thomas OR Uber Cup team from each of Africa, Pan Am and Oceania Continental Confederations.

Knock out stage

A draw is held to determine who plays who in the knock out stage at the end of the Group stage. The first knock out stage is the quarter finals with the winner's progressing through to the semi-finals and then the Final. The hosts also to have a clear strategy on how they plan to attract and support international media at the Event.

This type of activities should aim to achieve its own intrinsic purpose in promoting junior or parabadminton while also promoting the forthcoming Event.

Opening Ceremony Gala Dinner – the host should mark the occasion of holding the Event with a gala dinner for team officials and players in an appropriate venue that conveys the importance of the Event.

4.1 Introduction

The description below includes an outline of the allocation of Media and Commercial rights between the Host and the BWF. And it also includes a broad description of the Media and Commercial obligations for the Host and BWF. Please note that the description below does not describe all the detailed rights and obligations, but should be seen as a summary only. More details are however described in the Host Agreement.

Any interested bidder should therefore request BWF to forward the Host Agreement to get all the detailed information about Media and Commercial rights and obligations for hosting the Event. The bid submitted must be based on the rights and obligations described in the Host Agreement.

The Host Agreement includes the rights that each party can exploit in relation to the Event. The totality of these rights is initially owned exclusively by BWF and is made up of the:

- a) Television Broadcast – Rights and Production
- b) Commercial Rights, including all advertising, sponsorship and merchandising Rights

In the Host Agreement BWF grants specific rights to the Host. This section explains the rights that are typically exploited at BWF Events and which rights can be exploited by the Host. In case the Host wish to retain additional Commercial rights than what is described in this section, then the bid must clearly specify in detail:

- Which additional rights the Host wish to retain
- What will be the Separate Commercial Fee for any such additional Commercial rights (such a fee should be separate from any hosting fee).
- In case rewarding such additional rights is a condition for the bid made by the Host then this should also be clearly stated.

BWF requires 'sign-off' on all commercial and design aspects of the arena dressing to ensure this consistent look and feel, and that all commercial requirements are implemented correctly.

4.2 Television Rights

The television production can be the responsibility of either the host or BWF under one of the following models:

The host's television production planning should include the latest technology and modern techniques. An innovative approach to new technology in television production will be considered favorably.
2. BWF may decide to do the television production, but BWF would then also retain the domestic television rights.

The live clean signal must include international sound and English language commentary according to BWF Guidelines. The production must include integration of BWF designed graphics according to BWF guidelines.

The Host shall also provide an ENG crew for all days of play for news coverage of play not covered by the main TV and Secondary TV court production. The ENG Crew shall operate under the instruction of the BWF Executive Producer.

The Host and the Host's host broadcaster should provide all facilities reasonably necessary to allow for the exploitation of the Event television rights by international client broadcasters at the site of the tournament, including but not limited to: Unilateral camera for in vision presentation, editing facilities, ENG cameras, playout facilities, match recording facilities, commentary positions (for three commentators) and 'observer' positions including phone and fax line with the understanding that the international broadcasters will be charged no more than the published, current rate prices for the use of such facilities and personnel. The BWF Executive Producer shall supervise the HOST's host broadcaster's production of the World Feed. The BWF has the final say over the direction of the broadcast and if the BWF wishes will provide its own director.

5.0 CHAPTER FIVE – FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

Explaining budget possibilities

5.1 Overview

In all cases, the Host is expected to pay for all costs involved in the delivery of the Event to the basic specifications in this document, and as detailed further in the Host Agreement to be signed between BWF and the successful candidate city. The headline costs include but are not limited to:

Venue and practice facility hire as described more fully in Section 3, to include hire of all venues and facilities for the required number of days during and after the Event.

TV production (if applicable) as described more fully in Section 4.

Media facilities and support to include the provision of an international-standard Event media room with full technical capabilities.

Local organisation transport, hotel and subsistence costs (as needed by volunteers), Event marketing and local promotion, security and stewarding, media facilities, office and communications expenditure, ticket production and sales costs, souvenir programme, appropriate staffing and volunteers, etc.

Court Officials to include the travel, accommodation and per diem allowances of the Referee and Deputy Referees, umpires, line-judges and doctors, as described more fully in Section 3.

In certain areas where BWF is expected to have a major operational input, such as with the organisation of flights and accommodation of court officials, it is acceptable for bidding organisations to propose a budget limit that can be agreed between BWF and the Organising Committee and used by both parties in the organisation of the Event.

Guarantor

The Host will be required to provide a Guarantor to guarantee the payments and other Host obligations. Such a Guarantor can be Local, State or National Government institutions.
